

Airports

Taiwan's domestic and international airports, from Taoyuan's main gateway to the outlying-island fields that exist because ferries alone cannot reach them fast enough.

- Taoyuan, Songshan and Taichung [\[/air/airports/main-island-hubs/\]](#)
- Kaohsiung [\[/air/airports/kaohsiung/\]](#)
- Outlying islands: Penghu, Kinmen, Matsu, Lanyu and Green Island [\[/air/airports/outlying-islands/\]](#)

3 entries

	Kaohsiung International Airport The southern Taiwan gateway's history from a 1944 airfield to today's international terminal, with the runway dimension and MRT connection the operator states directly.
	Outlying-island airports Penghu, Kinmen, Matsu's two fields and the Taitung-served island strips at Lanyu and Green Island — each built or upgraded because the sea crossing alone was too slow, and each still running under the national island-fare subsidy.
	Taoyuan, Songshan and Taichung airports Taiwan's three main-island trunk airports outside Kaohsiung — one run by a dedicated state corporation, two flagged by the regulator itself as joint military-civil fields — with the runway and traffic detail their own sites would not surrender to a fetch.

Side by side

	Kaohsiung International Airport	Outlying-island airports
Runway	3,150 x 60 metres	—
Island-resident fare subsidy, Penghu Magong / Kinmen Shangyi routes	—	20 % of fare
Island-resident fare subsidy, Lienchiang (Matsu) Nangan / Beigan routes	—	30 % of fare
Island-resident fare subsidy, Penghu Qimei/Wangan and Taitung Lanyu/Ludao routes	—	40 % of fare

An independent, non-commercial reference site. Not affiliated with any transit operator or government body in Taiwan. Line colours are the official values published by each operator through Taiwan MOTC's open data platform. About this site.

Station names, codes and sequence from TDX Transport Data eXchange, Ministry of Transportation and Communications, operators TRTC, NTMC, TYMC, and TMRT. Government open data. Retrieved 2026-08-24; source last updated 2016-11-23. The 12 Sanying station records absent from TDX are sourced directly to New Taipei Metro and government publications on their pages. Provenance.