

Bibliography

Every source cited anywhere on this site, with what kind of source it is and which pages rest on it.

1318 of 1604 sources are primary — 82% of the bibliography. That number is the one worth watching. A reference site assembled entirely from encyclopedias is a transcription of an encyclopedia.

Primary sources 1318

Published by the body that created the fact — the operator, the builder, the government department, or a court. A primary source can still be wrong, but it is wrong on its own authority rather than by transcription.

DORTS's own explanation for why the branch is kept separate: the platform only fits 3 cars, so a 6-car main-line train cannot open its rear 3 doors safely (無法配合於小碧潭站機動不開啟後3節車廂之車門，故有人員跌落之風險), the Qizhang–Xiaobitan section is single-track with a single-side platform (採單線雙向行駛，僅有單側月台), and the branch also carries trains in and out of Xindian Depot (新店機廠). Gives three delay causes together — COVID-era disruption to foreign E&M suppliers (109–111年/2020–2022), high difficulty integrating the extension's dual-generation signalling with the existing line, and design changes to coordinate with the separate Taoyuan rail-undergrounding project. The same page also carries the Songshan Airport station's chronology — MOTC directs a study in February 2000, the Executive Yuan agrees in principle on 1 August 2001, the Public Construction Commission approves the funding on 4 January 2002.

Fetches and re-verifies directly. Places this segment in the same 1974/1–1978/2 'Seven Bottleneck Sections Double-Track Improvement Project' (改善瓶頸七區間雙軌工程) as the neighbouring Sijiaoting–Ruifang segment: 「牡丹=雙溪間3.0公里：此區間增建上行線『五份隧道』、『第三武丹坑橋』、『宜蘭街道陸橋』、『第二武丹坑橋』、改建牡丹站站房等等，因沿線土質鬆軟，工程期間適逢雨季，遲至1978年2月14日始完成雙線工程。本區間擴建雙線時並未改線，沿線彎道半徑及坡度維持原狀」 — giving a 3.0 km scope (see Conflicts against the operator's own 3.1 km), a new up-line tunnel (五份隧道) and three named bridges/overpasses, a rebuilt Mudan station building, soft-soil and rainy-season delay, completion 1978-02-14, and an explicit statement that curve radii and grades were not altered during doubling. The article cites 交通年鑑 volumes and a 1979 中國時報 article for this passage, neither independently fetched — reported as a lead consistent with the operator's own years, not independently primary-confirmed for the engineering detail.

Confirms the gondola station's own address (新光路二段8號) against the MRT station's different address (新光路二段32號), and describes the connection between them explicitly as an out-of-station transfer (站外轉乘), not a shared platform or fare-paid link — the two are describable as one transit hub, not one station.

Its own stated construction dates, checked directly on re-fetch, actually agree with the Wikipedia/operator dating rather than conflicting with it: 「四腳亭至瑞芳的雙線工程，則於民國63年動工，民國66年完工通車」 (1974 start, 1977 completion) — an earlier read of this same page reported a conflicting 1963–1966 date range attributed to a station plaque, which this direct re-fetch does not find; that earlier reading is not repeated here.

What this page does not tell you

It lists what is cited, not what is asserted. A page can carry a figure with no citation at all, and that figure will not appear here — which is precisely why the build counts those separately. Run `npm run claims` for the count of statements on this site that currently rest on nobody's authority.

Nor does it tell you whether a source is right. This site has already found one case where a citation to an official route map was further from the published colour than the value it replaced. Primary means “first hand”, not “correct”.

An independent, non-commercial reference site. Not affiliated with any transit operator or government body in Taiwan. Line colours are the official values published by each operator through Taiwan MOTC's open data platform. About this site.
