

National

Modal share, vehicle ownership and the traffic-death reconciliation, all from MOTC's own published series.

- Modal share [/statistics/national/modal-share/]
- Vehicle registration [/statistics/national/vehicle-registration/]
- Traffic-death statistics [/statistics/national/traffic-safety/]

3 entries

National modal share

MOTC's 2024 National Travel Survey — the year rail's mode share passed bus for the first time, public transit still below its 2020 pre-pandemic peak, and a public-transit share that ranges from 38.3% in Taipei City to 3.3% in Nantou.

Traffic-death statistics — a three-way disagreement

MOTC's 30-day count, the police A1 24-hour count, and the health ministry's cause-of-death registry each publish a different annual traffic-death total for the same year, and MOTC has had to publicly state it is not manipulating the numbers.

Vehicle registration, 1988-2025

A near-40-year MOTC series tracking Taiwan's motor-vehicle fleet from 8.4 million to 23.3 million registered vehicles, with scooters still outnumbering cars by nearly two to one.

Side by side

	National modal share	Traffic-death statistics — a three-way disagreement	Veh
Share who left home on a weekday, 2024	76.1 %	—	—
Share who left home on a weekday, 2022	73.4 %	—	—
MOTC-vs-MOHW gap, 2024 (per the udn.com comparison table)	—	524 people (17.7%)	—
Total motor vehicles, 1998 (87年)	—	—	1590
Total motor vehicles, 2016 (105年)	—	—	2150
Total motor vehicles, 2021 (110年)	—	—	2250

An independent, non-commercial reference site. Not affiliated with any transit operator or government body in Taiwan. Line colours are the official values published by each operator through Taiwan MOTC's open data platform. About this site.

Station names, codes and sequence from TDX Transport Data eXchange, Ministry of Transportation and Communications, operators TRTC, NTMC, TYMC, and TMRT. Government open data. Retrieved 2026-08-24; source last updated 2016-11-23. The 12 Sanying station records absent from TDX are sourced directly to New Taipei Metro and government publications on their pages. Provenance.