Taiwan airport ground transport

A source-backed guide to reaching Taiwan's main airports by metro, railway connection, bus, taxi and local transfer, with the national gaps left visible.

TAIWAN AIRPORT GROUND TRANSPORT
AIRPORTS IN THE CAA SERVICE-DESK TABLE 17 ^[1]	TAOYUAN AIRPORT MRT TERMINALS A12 / A13 ^[2]	SONGSHAN MRT STATION BR13 ^[5]	KAOHSIUNG MRT STATION R4 ^[6]
TAITUNG AIRPORT SERVICE HOURS 07:00 to last departure ^[10]

Taiwan's airport ground transport is a national network only in the broad sense: the Civil Aeronautics Administration lists seventeen airport stations, but the ground connection at each one is published by a different airport, city, operator or local government.^[1] This guide therefore separates verified transport interfaces from the many fares and departure boards that still need a direct, current fetch.

Northern gateways

Taoyuan [\[/rail/thsr/stations/taoyuan/\]](/rail/thsr/stations/taoyuan/) is the clearest rail-connected airport. Taoyuan Metro [\[/rail/operators/tymc/\]](/rail/operators/tymc/)'s A12 Airport Terminal 1 and A13 Airport Terminal 2 stations sit on the Airport MRT, while A18 is the interchange with Taiwan High Speed Rail [\[/rail/thsr/lines/thsr/\]](/rail/thsr/lines/thsr/).^[2] The operator's stopping pattern is not a single "airport train": the express calls at A1 Taipei [\[/rail/thsr/stations/taipei/\]](/rail/thsr/stations/taipei/) Main, A3 New Taipei Industrial Park [\[/rail/metro/stations/y20/\]](/rail/metro/stations/y20/), A8 Chang Gung Memorial Hospital, A12 and A13; the peak enhanced express adds A18 and A21; ordinary trains call at every station.^[2] The operator's current fare matrix reaches NT$160 for the longest single journey, accepts stored-value products including EasyCard [\[/ticketing/guides/cards-passes-and-fares/\]](/ticketing/guides/cards-passes-and-fares/), iPASS and icash 2.0, and publishes a separate fare table rather than the Taipei Metro [\[/rail/operators/trtc/\]](/rail/operators/trtc/) distance bands.^[3] The timetable itself warns that actual arrival times can change and tells airport-bound passengers to leave a buffer before the flight.^[2]

Songshan [\[/rail/metro/stations/g19/\]](/rail/metro/stations/g19/) is an urban airport rather than a distant intercity terminal. Its airport transport page lists MRT, city bus, National Highway Coach, taxi, car rental, driving, parking, bicycle and related categories, and gives airport operating hours of 05:00–23:00.^[4] The airport's BR13 Songshan Airport [\[/rail/metro/stations/br13/\]](/rail/metro/stations/br13/) Station map shows the underground MRT connection, airport-facing exits 1 and 2, Exit 3 toward the MRT, accessible elevators, a wheelchair waiting zone and gates for passengers with large baggage.^[5] The fetched airport transport page did not expose the individual bus route or fare carousel, so those details remain TBC rather than being reconstructed from a search result.^[4]

Central and southern gateways

Taichung [\[/rail/thsr/stations/taichung/\]](/rail/thsr/stations/taichung/) International Airport's current homepage exposes separate public-transport surfaces for bus routes, transfer information, taxis and general transport.^[8] The route and high-speed-transfer detail pages timed out during this retrieval, so this guide does not turn the airport's navigational headings into a claim about current route numbers, operators, fares or frequencies.^[8]

Kaohsiung International Airport has a direct metro interface:  Kaohsiung International Airport Station is on the Red Line, Exit 2 leads to the domestic terminal and Exit 6 to the international terminal.^[6] The airport publishes peak headways of four to six minutes and off-peak headways of no more than eight minutes, with a transfer to the Orange Line at Formosa Boulevard  .^[6] The airport also lists 9117, 9117A and 9117B southbound services toward Kenting and Fangliao, and route 111 northbound toward Tainan [\[/rail/thsr/stations/tainan/\]](/rail/thsr/stations/tainan/); its page says EasyCard, iPASS and TPASS are accepted on the southern services and places the Pingtung Bus counter near international-arrivals Gate 5.^[6] The current airport home page gives the MRT service window as 06:00–24:00.^[7]

Kaohsiung's taxi interface is equally explicit. Metered taxis wait at the first-floor arrival curbs of both terminals; international-terminal pickups add a NT$50 stop-service charge, while domestic-terminal pickups do not.^[6] The airport identifies separate queued-taxi, patrol-taxi and rental-car pickup points, and its June 2026 notice adds a designated pickup point for pre-booked taxis between the terminals near MRT Exit 2.^[6]

Smaller and island airports

Taitung's airport page describes access from the city by bus or taxi and gives a railway interchange that is not a direct rail-to-terminal platform: from the new Taitung Railway Station, passengers continue by city bus to the downtown bus terminal or take a taxi to the airport.^[9] The airport's service counter is open from 07:00 until the last departing flight; its own page says the arrival-exit access map carries bus schedules and routes and that a counter computer displays train timetables.^[10] These are useful operational facts, but they are not a substitute for a dated bus timetable or a fare table, both of which remain TBC here.

Taoyuan Airport's dated accessible-bus sheet is a reminder that accessibility information is a separate publication layer. It names example accessible services or advance-call arrangements for 1627, 1623, 1661, 706, 1962 and 1968, with operator telephone numbers, but it is not a complete current schedule and is labelled as an older update.^[11] The remaining CAA-listed airport stations—including Hualien, Penghu, Tainan, Kinmen, Chiayi [\[/rail/thsr/stations/chiayi/\]](/rail/thsr/stations/chiayi/), Nangan, Beigan, Lanyu, Ludao, Qimei, Wangan and Hengchun—need their own full operator pages before this site can safely state ground routes, fares or frequency.^[1]

What is date-sensitive

The fetched sources show why airport access is date-sensitive: Taoyuan tells passengers to allow a buffer, Kaohsiung records a June 2026 pickup-point change, and Taitung says its access map carries schedules.^{[2] [6] [10]} Use the airport and operator pages linked in the references for the day of travel. This page records what the full sources currently establish, and leaves missing national coverage as TBC rather than silently filling it with a generic “take the airport bus” instruction.
